

Articles from the Courier 8/03/20 – 8/16/20

In case you missed it: Check out these articles posted in the Easton Courier in the past two weeks, from Monday, Aug. 3 to Sunday, August 16.

This week's digest includes two weeks of stories because Tropical Storm Isaias knocked out power and internet to most of Easton and for the Easton Courier editors for a period of time from Aug. 4 to 11, depending on the area.

Don't forget to subscribe to email notifications. It's free, and you control the frequency. You can enter your email address here: <https://eastoncourier.news/subscribe/>. You control your notification preferences.

Obituary: Phyllis Ringenberg Ewing, 95

Sunday Nature Walk: Soaring with the Red-Tailed Hawk

Hughes to Propose Utility Customer Bill of Rights

Then & Now - The Easton Town Hall

Police Reform: Too Rushed or Too Delayed?

Message from First Selectman Bindelglass

On Your Mark, Get Ready: Easton 175th Anniversary Virtual 5k Starts Soon

Living In Darkness

Easton's Alisha Gorder Publishes Debut Novel

Drive-in Trivia Night Is Friday, Aug. 14

Op-Ed: Leadership in a Storm

Church Community in the Midst of a World Pandemic

Harry L. Green Exhibits His Art at the Easton Library

Schools to Reopen with Hybrid Model on Sept. 8

Easton Releases Unofficial Presidential Primary Results

Health Concerns Drive Bipartisan Action In General Assembly Special Session

Easton and Redding Schools Name New Superintendent

Car Accident on Sport Hill Knocks Out Power

Ruby, Don't Take Your Love to Town

Update on Storm Clearing

Reflections on the Summer Storm

Easton Police Log August 3 - August 9

Hwang Calls For Investigation of Eversource Following Tropical Storm Isaias

A Brief Message from First Selectman Bindelglass (with Links to Recent Messages)

A Bit Deliberate

Easton Community Comes Together Over Isaias

Isaias Leaves Massive Outages, Downed Trees

Bracing for a Wild Day of Weather from Tropical Storm Isaias

Easton Police Log July 27 - August 2

Easton Close to Starting One-Year Contract with Westport Weston Health District

Articles from the Courier 7/27/20 - 8/2/20

Easton Prepares for Tropical Storm Isaias

Dr. Stephanie Pierson Ugol Named Interim ER9 Superintendent